

Brett Heising

Inclusion Educator

Brett is a highly acclaimed speaker who educates and inspires people around the world about living life with a physical disability. He has mastered the art of talking about the sensitive topic of “disability” in a fun, open, and honest way. His programs provide applicable approaches to discussing disability and help organizations move toward true inclusion. Brett founded brettapproved, Inc., a travel and entertainment company focused on serving travelers with mobility challenges.

At Next Pivot Point, Brett helps clients truly understand the complex nature of disability. He offers tangible, real-world advice designed to help his clients understand the difference between something being “ADA compliant” and truly accessible.

Brett is a member of the Phoenix Business Journal’s 40 Under 40 class of 2015, serves as Board Chair for United Cerebral Palsy of Central Arizona and is widely considered a go-to resource on topics related to travel and mobility for companies around the globe. He’s on a mission to help companies transform how they think about the more than 60 million Americans who, like Brett, live with a physical disability.
